Fonfon is a children's book publisher guided by principles of sustainable development. We only publish picture books for children aged 3 to 11, and books designed specifically for early readers. All of them are magnificently illustrated and written to be read at the child's own level.

We offer free educational resources on our website for teachers to download and use in class alongside our books. In order to be innovative, the publishing house also produces audio versions of some albums as well as apps that allow the reader to further explore the universe of the books.

Picture books featuring this logo are also available as an audiobook. Please see our website for details.

The visual worlds of the picture books featuring this logo can be found on the Fonfon Creative Workshop..

OUR COLLECTIONS

COURTEPOINTE 7

Practical books of various format and styles, that didn't fit in any of Fonfon's other collections but conquered our hearts!

STORIES FOR LAUGHING 11

A selection of really fun stories with interesting characters and beautiful illustrations.

STORIES FOR LIVING 33

Fiction books that tackle sensitive themes like anxiety and learning difficulties.

STORIES FOR READING 57

A collection designed specifically for beginners.

FONFON INTERACTIVE 65

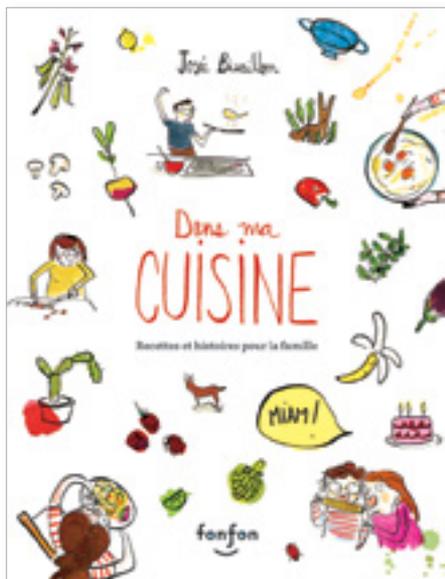

Immersive and creative experiences in digital forms.

COURTEPOINTE

Courtepointe started with an idea to publish outstanding practical titles that weren't quite a fit for any of Fonfon's existing collections. There's something special about this patchwork of books that will touch, delight and inspire readers. Every one has a unique colour, format, content and style. Stitched together as a collection named after a patchwork quilt, they're just as cozy and comforting to curl up with as you'd expect.

TAKE A NUMBER!

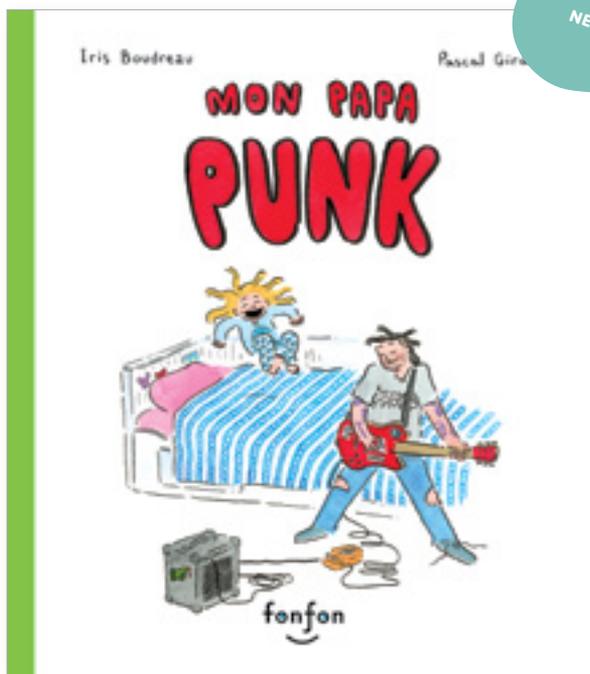

Tania Baladi · Audrey Malo

One morning, just like any other, Hare leaves his burrow for his daily stroll. But he soon finds the path blocked by a strange machine and a crowd of animals. To enter the forest, he must take a number and wait his turn. What a ridiculous situation! As the line grows longer by the hour, the group's patience is put to the test.

A funny story about waiting that encourages kids to think about the different rules in their everyday life.

BREAKING NEWS: MR. HARE DEFEATED

Robert Soulières · Sans Cravate

Reporters have flocked to a forest clearing to cover an astonishing story: A tortoise has won a race against a hare! But how is that even possible?

Was the hare kidnapped along the way? Did he take a powerful sleeping pill and fall fast asleep? It's a mystery!

A modern retelling of Aesop's famous fable, with a few nods to classic fairytales!

Ici, c'est Martin.
Martin est champion en dessin.

En particulier, les fleurs
regardent tout plein.

Avec ses imaginations et son talent, il voit ce qu'il y a de plus chou : des petits gâteaux qui font des clés d'œuf, une licorne en pâte, un arc-en-ciel qui chante.

Les autres professeurs commencent à douter de la réalité et se rapprochent pour voir de leurs propres yeux ce qui se passe. Ils croient pas du tout, ce comme les autres avant eux, ils regardent au dessus.

ORBIE, DRAW ME A BILLIBUTTON

Frédéric Wolfe · Orbie

Things are not going well at all. Fred has been trying to draw a billibutton for the last three weeks and ten days. Running out of hope, he turns to Orbie the illustrator for help.

But what exactly is a billibutton? A sheep by the name of Billie? The more time goes by, the harder it becomes for Fred to explain what he wants to see, and the more stubborn he gets. It won't be easy for Orbie to keep her cool!

With a wacky and highly original concept to test the illustrator's patience, this is a picture book for readers to cherish.

STORIES FOR LIVING

A collection of picture books for children that tackle sensitive topics or address thought-provoking themes – these are the kinds of books every good bookstore needs!

It is a compelling collection tackling the sensitive topics that tend to leave us lost for words. These picture books are designed to embrace, comfort and help children who are struggling to come to terms with challenging events, by helping them and their parents to talk about the emotions involved.

THE SANDPAPER GIRL

Pierrette Dubé · Cara Carmina

On Paper Houses Street, the Origami-Purlstitch family lives in a graph-paper notepad with their daughter Lily. But unlike her parents, the rough-skinned little girl can't be around wool or delicate paper. But what if she could make friends with wood?

A sweet story about a sandpaper girl trying to find her place in a world of breathtaking beauty.

Finding one's place

Monsieur Origami avait
un beau métier : il était plieur de papier. On venait de lui pour acheter ses chapeaux en
papier par-dessus et ses jupes
plissées en papier glacé.

Madame Poinçonné mariée le jour avec une robe fabriquée. Ses cartonnés en laine d'alpaga étaient très recherchés, ses vestes en laine de lambs aussi.

À compter de ce jour, elle passa de longues heures dans le bois à cueillir les innombrables en carton ondulé.

Elle en rapportait des bouts de branches
ou des morceaux d'écorce, qu'elle s'empressait ensuite à poncer puis à façonner.

MY INK GARDEN

Simon Boulerice · Marianne Ferrer

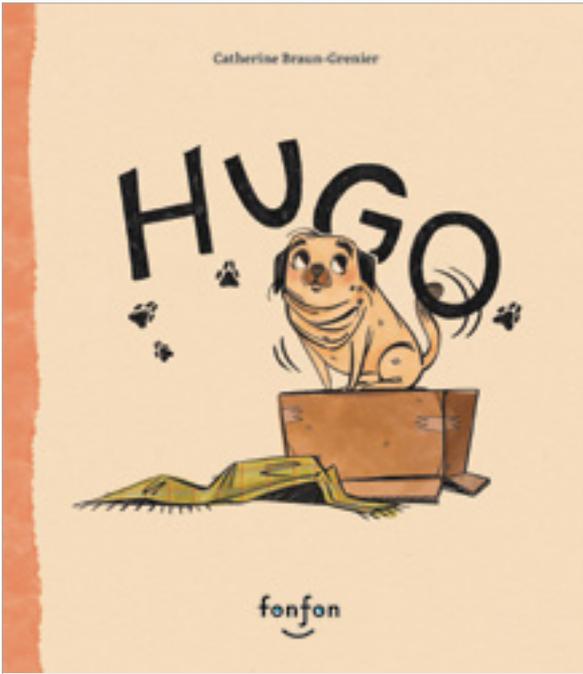

My mother and I share a love of paper and pens. She often says a simple flower can help soothe a hurt or take the sting out of an angry word. So, whenever I make a mistake in pen, I correct it by drawing a flower. I turn my accidents into a beautiful garden.

An uplifting story about how everyone makes mistakes—and the sheer joy felt in a colourful stationery aisle!

NTANGU

Malika Tirolien · Kiara Thompson

My name is Ntangu, and every morning I make a mental list of my stings. But I'm not talking about wasp or mosquito stings! That's just the word I came up with to mean all the hurtful comments I get about my skin, my hair, or my origins. I don't know if people realize how much they upset me.

BEATRICE IN THE MIST

Chloé Varin · Rémi Allen

It can take years of practice for a magician to learn how to disappear. But disappearing is something that comes naturally to me. I'm invisible, but not because I want to be. I'm Beatrice (in the mist)! People look right through me, like I'm not there.

This is an enveloping story about standing up for yourself.

Standing up for yourself

Quand vient le temps d'aller au lit,
il n'y a personne pour lui valser toute nuit
Au matin, Chouchou est là pour me tenir compagnie.

Je me réveille avec un coussin dans le ventre au petit matin.
Chouchou a dormi deux nuits là, et sans parvenir à leur rien dire.

Pas de doute! Je sais mieux que ce chien.
Puis, je sais mieux que rien...

D'habitude, madame Mireille me raconte ogni histoire une leçon.
Aujourd'hui, elle me reproche d'avoir le ciel dans les nuages.

D'ordinaire, elle m'arrive avec ses reproches, mais ce matin, qu'en l'espace de ses deux heures de leçon, je n'ai guère envie devenir amie avec celle qui me voit telle que je suis.

HENRY HA-HA

Émilie Perreault · Josée Bisailon

Hi, I'm Henry, and people laugh at me a lot. Sometimes Mum worries that they're making fun of me, but I don't care. I love making people laugh. Laughing is contagious. Anyone can catch it. I learned that a long time ago!

THE HOUSE IN MY HEAD

Vigg

It's a harsh landing, and it's left me shaken, but I still have to walk up to the blackboard. Everyone is looking at me. I open my mouth. Nothing comes out. Nothing at all. The story I could recite from memory barely an hour ago is gone. There's not a single syllable left.

When he gets back from the movie theatre, Vincent can tell his mom exactly what happened in the film, right down to the tiniest detail. But when he has to get up in front of the class and recite a story he has learned by heart, his mind goes blank. The house in his head is just so big, he tends to get lost in there!

OUR TRUE COLOURS

Simon Boulerice · Paule Thibault

I only have one arm: the right one. I like to tell my friends I was in a terrible car crash and lived to tell the tale, but they had to cut my arm off. Ha, ha! That's not true, though. I was born this way. I've been special since the day I came into the world!

This picture book paints a portrait of 14 beautiful and perfectly atypical children. They may be young, but they're not afraid to show their true colours and be proud of who they are.

Our True Colours is a celebration of childhood and being unique.

Being unique

"In this album, the author drew on the students he has met during his career to write fictional portraits of very unique children. We meet atypical, unique young people there, bubbling with life, in the process of building their identity. The whole is accompanied by portraits illustrated by Paule Thibault, giving this book an aspect of a work of art on which to ponder."

THEA AND HER THORNS

Maude Nepveu-Villeneuve · Sandra Dumais

Thea has her own bike with two wheels, a pair of red shoes with stars on them and a super-soft stuffed lion. And she has thorns: lots of spiky branches that grow in her tummy and stop her from doing anything when she's worried or scared. Thea is desperate to tame her thorns, but how can she go about it?

HEY, THAT'S ME!

Stéphanie Deslauriers · Geneviève Després

Lawrence is a boy who knows a lot about plants, excels at mathematics and loves to call a spade a spade.

But his classmates sometimes give him a hard time because of his odd behaviour. Will the class trip to the botanical gardens at the end of the year help them to see Lawrence in a different light?

NEVER FAR AWAY

Valérie Fontaine · Ninon Pelletier

A mother shares a myriad of colourful experiences with her son to tell him more about a certain someone who has passed away. Together, they explore the little pleasures in life that help keep the memories of people we love alive.

IN BETWEEN

Valérie Fontaine · Ninon Pelletier

Hi! It's me, Vincent. Every time I talk to you, I introduce myself. I always wonder if you recognize me. You died before I was born, we never had the chance to hug. Even though you're no longer there, everyone talks to me about you. Even people I don't know. It seems we could have gotten along well you and me.

In Between explores the theme of mourning in children who have never known a loved one who has passed away. This absence can raise several questions and certainly taints the lives of those who remain.

A bright story where all emotions are allowed.

AVERY AND THE FLOOD

Stéphanie Boulay · Agathe Bray-Bourret

Avery was inconsolable. Nothing and no one can comfort him and stem the flood of tears. Until his big sister Rebecca sets out on a mission to get to the bottom of what is making him so miserable.

In her first venture into children's literature, Stéphanie Boulay sheds light on a profound search for identity. A charming, impactful and timely tale to foster self-acceptance and reassure children that it's OK to be different.

STORIES FOR READING

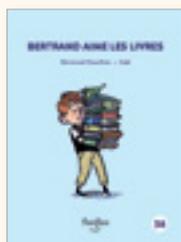

Stories for reading is a collection for early readers designed to spark the joy of reading through short stories that leave ample room for the imagination! Each series of books is built around a caricature of the author, who becomes the main character and leads the reader on a journey of discovery. Because taking the first steps into reading should be a fun experience!

- ★ One to two sentences per page, with constant placement
 - ★ Stories of 12 pages in length, containing 95 to 150 words
 - ★ A repetitive structure
 - ★ Accessible but varied vocabulary
 - ★ Funny stories with unexpected twists
 - ★ Texts approved by a committee of education advisors, remedial tutors and teachers
-  All of the Stories for reading series are brought together in the same visual world on the Fonfon Creative workshop.
